A WARNING COMES FROM MR. ELLISON.

REDUCTION OF THE VISIBLE SUPPLY TO DANGER LIMIT FORESHADOWED EVEN SHOULD THE CROP BE 7,000,000 THE

SITUATION AT LIVERPOOL

The cotton market closed strong and six points higher last night than the final sales of Saturday. Toward the close the report came from Liverpool that Mr. Ellison would come out with a circular showing that in view of the world's present con-sumption of cotton a 7,000,000-bale crop would leave e surplus next fa'l reduced to the danger limit. This report started buying, one firm, Hubbard Brothers & Co., being conspicuously beavy buyers. The movement of the crop was light. There were renewed indications of activity in Southern spot markets. Wheat was rising. The "war scare" markets. Wheat was its property of the price of the price of colton. It is overdone. So the price went up and closed steady. March sold at the close

The port receipts were 18,278 bales, or 4,000 less than were expected, against 42,678 last year. Receipts at New-Orleans to-day are estimated at 9,000 to 19,000 ales, against 15,900 last year. Interior towns ran far behind last year. Augusta got 287, against 873 last year: Memphis, 354, against 2,677 last year: St. Louis, 496, against 576; Cincinnati, 235, against 1,965; Houston, 2,459, against 8,679. Houston expects to day 6,000, against 15,192 last year. New-Orleans sold 3,150 bales, Memphis, 1,500 bales;

Galveston, 1,273; Mobille, 906; Augusta, f,345, and St. Louis, 519. Exporters bought 1,746 bales in the local market and spinners 791 bales, the heaviest purchases here in a long time. Exports from all the

In every direction it looked as if the smallness of the visible supply, the early decline in it that has set in, and the extremely light receipts are all tending to confirm Mr. Nelli's judgment of this crop. Liver-pool spot sales fell to 8,000 bales yesterday. This erved to call attention to the situation at that The condition there is simply that unles spot sales in that market are reduced below 10,000 bales, and remain below that until next November, the British spinners will be forced to im-port American cotton a great deal faster than heretofore, or the entire surplus of cotton of any kind in Liverpool will be wiped out. On this point the trade ent at Liverpool in the past two years ough pool was reduced from its maximum of 1,859,600 bales on March 28, 1894, to 660,000 bales on November 8, 1894, when the receipts from the new crop began to come in. The stocks at Liverpool are not likely there is some great increase in the imports or decrease in the sales there. Yet a reduction in the Liverpool supply on the same scale as in that year, beginning as late as March 28, woule by November 8 wipe out the entire Liverpool stocks, not of American only, but of all kinos. On March 28, 1894, the supply of American cotton in Liverpool was 1,557,600 bales. On November 8 following it had shrunk to £25,000 bales, a loss of 1,622,600 bales. There can be no increase in American stocks at Liverpool this year unless there is a sharp increase in exports from here over the supply now going out or a sharp decrease in the sales. The present stock of American cotton in Liverpool is 923,000 bales. If the same reduction in stocks takes place this summer and early fall in Liverpool's supplies of American as took place in 1894 the exhaustion of the stock of American cotton predicted by Mr. Neill will occur at that, the greatest cotton port in the world. The stock of cotton of all kinds in Liverpool reached its maximum last season on March 7, when it stood at 1,860,000 bales. The reduction that began on that date had reduced this supply by November 1 to 881,009, a loss during the intervening eight months of $20,000 bales. The reduction that began on that date had reduced this supply by November 1 to 881,009, a loss during the intervening eight months of $20,000 bales. The reduction that began on that date had reduced this supply by November 1 to 881,009, a loss during the intervening eight months of $20,000 bales. The reduction of American cotton at Liverpool on tincrease from now on and the decline set in on March 7, the same date as last year, and the reduction run along on the same scale, the total exhaustion of American stocks at Liverpool will be seen before November 1 next and the visible supply of all kinds left in that port will be reduced to 132,000 bales.

One thing seems plain, that there must either be an abnormal falling off in the dally sales at Liverpool will be seen before November 1 next and the visible su there is some great increase in the imports or decrease in the sales there. Yet a reduction in the ttendance of cotton planters from all over the tire South at the cotton convention, to be held in this city to-morrow. The question to be considered is the reduction of acreage for the coming year. Hector D. Lane, president of the Cotton Growers Association, is here to-day. Mr. Lane says that the crop this year is not over 6,500,000 bales, and but for the war scare and financial trouble, cotton would be orth 10 cents a pound.

Tuesday accepting the Heine memorial fountain in behalf of the Germans of the Twenty-third Ward. The delegation was headed by General Franz Sigel, Tax Commissioner Wells and former Judge James R. Angel. The fountain will be given to the city without cost.

Mayor Strong said he would consider the matter carefully, as the newspapers seemed opposed to the placing of the monument in any park or other public place. One of the delegation said that reporters were not always truthful, and that they undoubtedly opposed the acceptance of the fountain for some ulterior purpose.

The City Hall reporters," answered the Mayor, "always tell the truth."

CHAT ABOUT PUBLIC MEN.

The silver men are dodging New-York just now. summer Senator Stewart, Senator Jones, Senator Cameron and others were in the city almost the whole time maintaining an educational bureau. Lately they have kept clear of the metropolis, and the conclusion reached by politicians is that they received little comfort here. Senator Du Bols, of received little comfort here. Senator Du Bols, of Idaho, was in the city the other day, but he kept preity still. He said briefly in speaking of the attitude of the sliver men in the next Republican National Convention: "I do not care to bolt my party until I see that it is the last hope. I prefer to try to educate my party up to my standard. I would not, to-day, join any independent move even if it was in the interest of free sliver. Anyhow, I do not think such an organization could achieve much good. It is best to seek reform in the old party before breaking away."

Mitchell, of Oregon, uttered a few days ago at the Hotel Marlborough. He said: "I find that a great many people do not understand what free coinage means, and one side has made it out such a disaselysium, that of course the average citizen naturally holds back, fearing that neither side can deliver the goods. I do not think that any independent party goods. I do not think that any independent pair formed at this time in the interest of free silver could accomplish much good. We must stick to our old party and try to induce it to make some allowance to us. In case it refuses to heed us, then the alternative of submission or a boit is at hand. I do not attempt to conjecture what will be done, but I would hesitate a long time before I would jump." When Sensior Mitchell was asked about the report that Sensior Cameron's name would be presented When Senator Mitchell was asked about the report that Senator Cameron's name would be presented to the Republican Convention by the free silver men and that he would be voted for solidly until some compromise could be made, he replied that all such rumors were mere talk and he did not care to comment upon them. Upon this point it is noticeable that all silver men are keeping quiet, and yet there is certain activity in their ranks leading to the belief that some such move is anticipated.

to Portugal under General Harrison, was at the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday. The politicians were inclined to think that General Batcheller had come down from Saratoga to see his old chief about politics, as the ex-President is still at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. General Batcheller had nothing to say about the ex-President's chances, but speaking of Governor Morton as a Presidential possibility, he said: "I think that Governor Morton's chances suffer from the fact that he has not been in the field as long as McKinley, Reed and the other candidates, and consequently his machine is not in as good order as the others. All these other candidates have friends at work for them in Washington securing pledges. As for Governor Morton, I find that every one in the State is enthusiastically for him, and he has many warm friends outside. He will, I think, show up well in the convention." to Portugal under General Harrison, was at the

He said that St. Louis made a gailant fight, but that the only explanation possible was that Chicago got the most votes, but he rather chuckled over Chicago's defeat in trying to get the Republican Convention. He tells some good stories about political happenings in his State, and one of the best he tells is about one of his predecessors in the office. It was during the time that the Prince of Wales paid a visit to this country. The Governor of Missouri was known all over the West as "Old Governor Frank." He was a remarkable character, with a fondness for whiskey. When the Prince passed through Missouri it was decided to give him a reception. A large parade was arranged for as a part of the festivities. A grandstand was erected, and the day of the parade the Governor and the Prince stood side by side upon the platform watching company after company, float after float, organization after organization, go past. The Governor every few moments sampled a flask that stood near him, and as each succeeding organization went down the line, he grew more and more enthusiastic. By the time the parade was about ended, the Governor had reached a rather intoxicated stage. Suddenly there was a burst of martial music. A fine body of men, wearing white helmets, red shirts, and carrying glittering axes, came tramping down the street. It was the firemen, the Governor's pet organization. He looked at them, and watched the sun flash and gleam on their brilliant regaila. Then two tears rolled down his bronzed check, and he clapped the scion of English royalty upon the back, and said, in a husky voice: "Frince, don't you wish you were the Governor of Missouri?" Ex-Governor Francis can never be persuaded to tell what Albert Edward said. made a gailant fight, but that the only explanation

Those who know us throughout the land will, we are confident, need no assurance that our love for America, its people and its interests will never wane. We are with you in feeling, thought and affection, and shall ever be.

We must here record an expression of tribute to our faithful, hard-working and efficient staff of officers. We have watched them grow up around us through darkest storm and flercest battle. Our mutual love and confidence in each other has made the family feeling run side by side with the military discipline. It is natural that they and we should feel this separation. We can assure the American public emphatically that they are worthy of all help, confidence and respect.

Calhoun took one of the children away from the father, and then, becoming bewildered in the smoke, he carried the child to an atic room, thrust his head out of a window and bawled to the firemen below: "Tat a ladder up here, quick." "Ladder he blowed!" was the answer. "Come down the stairs. The fire is out long ago." Calhoun walked down the stairs and going to the police station reported that he had rescued a child from the fourth story of the burning house. The Commissioners will hardly promote him for his alleged heroism.

THE JUDGMENT VACATED.

The Gideon-Dwyer libel case was postponed again yesterday. David Gideon, the well-known turfman, ought suit for $0,000 damages against Philip J. When Mr. Gildeon brought suit Mr. Dwyer entered

BITS OF LEGAL NEWS.

The trial of an action brought by Charles Cooper Clark, of this city, against Bayard Thayer, of Boson, to recover $27,000 for injuries caused to himself and his vacht idlewild, when run down by the de-4, 1892, near Newport Harbor, was begun yesterday before Judge Bookstaver and a jury in the Supreme Court. Mr. Clark alleges that the Constellation was with the Idlewild. Justice Truax, in the Supreme Court yesterday, on a motion made by Charles M. Beattle, dismissed the proceedings taken by Mrs. August C. Davidson to collect $50,000 arrears for alimony from George L. vorce against her husband by default in 1809, he agreeing at that time to give her $25 a week. Soon agreeing at that time to give her $25 a week. Soon after he became financially embarrassed and she caused his arrest. Subsequently Mrs. Davidson inherited $20,000 from her parents and did not bother him again about alimony until recently, when she caused Davidson's arrest on an attachment to collect $30,000 arrears with interest. Justice Truax holds that the papers on which Davidson was arrested are defective, and says she should not be allowed to enforce this decree, as she has waived her rights.

The five justices who sat in the appeal cases brought before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court spent yesterday in consultation. They had some fifty arguments to consider and render decisions upon, but they amounced that no decisions would be handed down to-day.

Among the cases that are watched with extreme interest is that of the People against ex-inspector William W. McLaughiln, which was argued on Friday last by Colonel James. It is the common opinion among lawyers that the appeal from Justice Ingraham's decision will not be sustained. Colonel James, intends, however, to argue another appeal from McLaughlin's conviction of extortion before Justice Barrett.

Henry Klippel, sixty-three years old, the owner of a bakery at No. 619 Sixth-st., committed suicide there yesterday morning by shooting himself through the mouth. He leaves a widow and seven grown-up children, two of whom are in Germany. Drink and insanity were the causes of the act.

For the last few months he had been drinking heavilty, and at times he was out of his mind. On several occasions he had threatened to take his life.

REAL ESTATE.

There was no business transacted yesterday at the & Ireland adjourned sine die the sale of the four-story brick flathouse in Bradhurst-ave., near One-hundred-and-fifty-fifth-st., lot 25.6x97.3x25x92.2. The Committee of Seven appointed by the recently organized Real Estate Board of Brokers, consisting of J. Edgar Leaycraft, Frank R. Houghton, Charles F. Hoffman, jr., Alfred E. Marling, William H. Foisom, Pierce S. Treacey and J. Clarance Davies, held

F. Hoffman, jr., Alfred E. Marling, William H. Folsom, Plerce S. Treaccy and J. Clarance Davies, held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the Liberty-st. Exchange. The constitution and bylaws which had been drawn up were discussed, but no definite action was taken. Messrs. Folsom, Treaccy and Houghton were appointed a committee to secure proper quarters in the Exchange Building. Another meeting of the committee will be held the latter part of the week.

The report that the United Society of Shakers of New-Lebanon, N. Y., has recently leased a site for a modern business building in Broadway, extending through to Mercer and Houston sts., and have also rented for a period of ten years the Hotel Graham, at the southwest corner of Madison-ave, and Eighty-ninth-st, is authoritatively denied. The report was doubtless caused by the fact that the leases in question were made to Robert B. Valentine, who was supposed to be acting for the society. By the covenants of the society, it is said, it is debarred from making leases of any kind.

Maclay & Davies have soid for Aymar Embury to a customer, for investment, the five-story brick warehouse, No. 32 Peck Silp, covering a lot 19/285218, 19/48526, for £2,000. This property has changed hands only once in fifty years, having been sold by the same brokers to the recent owner last June.
